The Engineering Entrepreneurship Development program helps students from many majors learn how to create new and innovative products, services, and businesses. Entrepreneurs seek out opportunities, secure and employ resources, and provide leadership to create something of value. The seminar is to create awareness among students of Engineering and Science courses about various facets of entrepreneurship as an alternative career option. The idea of organizing this seminar is to inculcate the fundamentals, key concepts of Entrepreneurship among students of Science and Technology.

The main attractions of the seminar were as follows:

- Successful Entrepreneurs were invited for expert lectures
- Practicing entrepreneur's success stories - common problems faced by entrepreneurs were discussed.
- Grant, funding and loaning from banks, agencies was discussed.
- Improving communication skills (interacting with people) for better results was discussed.

Entrepreneurship cuts across every sector of human life including the field of engineering. engineering entrepreneurship is the process of harnessing the business opportunities in engineering and turning it into profitable commercially viable innovation, the speaker opined. The seminar was an informative one and the students had a lot of takeaways from the session.
