A Five-day Workshop on “Green Energy Solutions” has been organized by the Department of ECE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, from 8/10/2018 To 12/10/2018. Dr Gireesh kumar has discussed Renewable energy stands in contrast to fossil fuels, which are being used far more quickly than they are being replenished. Renewable energy resources and significant opportunities for energy efficiency exist over wide geographical areas, in contrast to other energy sources, which are concentrated in a limited number of countries. Rapid deployment of renewable energy and energy efficiency, and technological diversification of energy sources, would result in significant energy security and economic benefits. Solar and wind power have got much cheaper. In some cases it will be cheaper to transition to these sources as opposed to continuing to use the current, inefficient, fossil fuels. In addition, electrification with renewable energy is more efficient and therefore leads to significant reductions in primary energy requirements. It would also reduce environmental pollution such as air pollution caused by the burning of fossil fuels, and improve public health, reduce premature mortalities due to pollution and save associated health costs that could amount to trillions of dollars annually. Multiple analyses of decarbonization strategies have found that quantified health benefits can significantly offset the costs of implementing these strategies

A One-day Seminar on “Data Science Application to Power and Energy Management” has been organized by the Department of ECE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Gunthapally, on 10-07-2018. Mr. G Devendar has discussed Energy Management Software (EMS) is a general term and category referring to a variety of energy-related software applications which may provide utility bill tracking, real-time metering, building HVAC and lighting control systems, building simulation and modeling, carbon and sustainability reporting, IT equipment management, demand response, and/or energy audits. Managing energy can require a system of systems approach. Energy management software often provides tools for reducing energy costs and consumption for buildings, communities or industries EMS collects energy data and uses it for three main purposes: Reporting, Monitoring and Engagement. Reporting may include verification of energy data, benchmarking, and setting high-level energy use reduction targets. Monitoring may include trend analysis and tracking energy consumption to identify cost-saving opportunities. Engagement can mean real-time responses (automated or manual), or the initiation of a dialogue between occupants and building managers to promote energy conservation. One engagement method that has recently gained popularity is the real-time energy consumption display available in web applications or an onsite energy dashboard/display.

A One-day Seminar on “Multi-Level Converters and Power Quality Issues for Electric Drives” has been organized by the Department of ECE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, on 11-07-2019. Dr Ranga raju has A conventional two-level voltage source converter has so far been the most widely used converter in active power filters, however it creates several harmonic components and has a high switching stress, leading to additional power quality and loss issues. In recent years, a new breed of voltage source converters capable of producing a desired voltage from several levels of dc voltage as inputs, commonly referred to as multilevel inverters, has made active filtering a mature technology for improvement of power quality. In comparison with a two-level converter, a multi-level converter has less harmonic distortion and less switching stress. The selection of switching technique to control the inverter plays an effective role on harmonic elimination while generating the ideal output voltage. Intensive studies have been performed on the selection of topology and control techniques, and the best control scheme is suggested by various authors, according to various application areas.

Prof.M.Bala subramanium,BITS,HYD Explaining about Amaature radio (ham radio)

A One-day Seminar on “Amaature radio (ham radio)” has been organized by the Department of ECE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, from 04-02-2019. Prof.M.Bala subramanium has discussed Amateur radio, also known as ham radio, is the use of the radio frequency spectrum for purposes of non-commercial exchange of messages, wireless experimentation, self-training, private recreation, radio sport, contesting, and emergency communications. The amateur radio service is established by the International Telecommunication Union (ITU) through the Radio Regulations. National governments regulate technical and operational characteristics of transmissions and issue individual station licenses with a unique identifying call sign, which must be used in all transmissions. Radio amateurs are limited to a small set of frequency bands, the amateur radio bands, allocated throughout the radio spectrum, but within these bands are allowed to transmit on any frequency using a variety of voice, text, image, and data communications modes.

Prof Narasimha rao, Explaining about machine learning

A One-day Seminar on “machine learning” has been organized by the Department of CSE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, on 05-10-2018 Prof Narasimha rao, has discussed Machine learning (ML) is an umbrella term for solving problems for which development of algorithms by human programmers would be cost-prohibitive, and instead the problems are solved by helping machines 'discover' their 'own' algorithms, without needing to be explicitly told what to do by any human-developed algorithms. Recently, generative artificial neural networks have been able to surpass results of many previous approaches. Machine learning approaches have been applied to large language models, computer vision, speech recognition, email filtering, agriculture and medicine, where it is too costly to develop algorithms to perform the needed tasks. The mathematical foundations of ML are provided by mathematical optimization (mathematical programming) methods. Data mining is a related (parallel) field of study, focusing on exploratory data analysis through unsupervised

Dr. B. Rajesh, Explaining about Data ware Housing & Data Minning (DWDm)

A One-day Seminar on “Data ware Housing & Data Minning (DWDm)” has been organized by the Department of CSE, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, on 05-10-2018. Dr. B. Rajesh, PKR College has discussed system used for reporting and data analysis and is considered a core component of business intelligence. Data warehouses are central repositories of integrated data from one or more disparate sources. This is beneficial for companies as it enables them to interrogate and draw insights from their data and make decisions. The data stored in the warehouse is uploaded from the operational systems (such as marketing or sales). The data may pass through an operational data store and may require data cleansing for additional operations to ensure data quality before it is used in the data warehouse for reporting. Extract, transform, load (ETL) and extract, load, transform (ELT) are the two main approaches used to build a data warehouse system.

V Sekhar, Professor, Osmania University Explaining about Entrepreneurship

A one-day Seminar on "Entrepreneurship" has been organized by the Department of MBA, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, on 12-10-2018. V Sekhar has discussed an entrepreneur is an individual who creates and/or invests in one or more businesses, bearing most of the risks and enjoying most of the rewards. The process of setting up a business is known as "entrepreneurship". The entrepreneur is commonly seen as an innovator, a source of new ideas, goods, services, and business/or procedures. More narrow definitions have described entrepreneurship as the process of designing, launching and running a new business, which is often similar to a small business, or make a profit". While definitions of entrepreneurship typically focus on the launching and running of businesses, due to the high risks involved in launching a startup company, a significant proportion of startups have to due to "lack of funding, bad business decisions, government policies, an economic crisis, a lack of market demand, or a combination of all of these."

Workshop on Research Methodology

Details of the Resource Person: Dr. Ramesh babu, Professor, Andhra University

Dr. Ramesh babu, Professor, Andhra University Explaining about Research Methodology

A Five-day Workshop on “Research Methodology” has been organized by the Department of MBA, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, from 08/11/2018 to 13/11/2018. Dr. Ramesh babu has discussed according to Somekh and Lewin, a research methodology is both “the collection of methods or rules” you apply to your research, as well as the “principles, theories, and values” that support your research approach. Simply put, a research paper’s methodology section must shed light on how you were able to collect or generate your research data and demonstrate how you analyze them (SHU Library, 2020). For novice researchers, writing the methodology of a research paper can be an overwhelming process, especially considering the intricate elements covered by this section (J. Ellis & Levy, 2009, p. 323). The goal of this article is to define what is research methodology, guide novice researchers in their research methodology writing, and to help them gain a clear understanding of a research methodology’s structure.

A Five-day workshop on “Entrepreneurship & Its Growth” has been organized by the Department of MBA, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, from 07/02/2019 to 12/02/2019 Dr. Sindhu has discussed Entrepreneurship includes the creation or extraction of economic value. It is the act of being an entrepreneur, or the owner or manager of a business enterprise who, by risk and initiative, attempts to make profits. Entrepreneurs act as managers and oversee the launch and growth of an enterprise. Entrepreneurship is the process by which either an individual or a team identifies a business opportunity and acquires and deploys the necessary resources required for its exploitation. In the early 19th century, the French economist Jean-Baptiste Say provided a broad definition of entrepreneurship, saying that it "shifts economic resources out of an area of lower and into an area of higher productivity and greater yield". Entrepreneurs create something new and unique—they change or transmute value.

A One-day Seminar on “Entrepreneurial finance and venture capital” has been organized by the Department of MBA, Avanthi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, on 04-01-2019. Dr.V. Samunnatha, has discussed Entrepreneurial finance is the study of value and resource allocation, applied to new ventures. It addresses key questions which challenge all entrepreneurs: how much money can and should be raised; when should it be raised and from whom; what is a reasonable valuation of the startup; and how should funding contracts and exit decisions be structured. Depending on the industry and aspirations of the entrepreneur(s) they may need to attract money to fully commercialize their concepts. Thus they must find investors – such as their friends and family, a bank, an angel investor, a venture capital fund, a public stock offering or some other source of financing. When dealing with most classic sources of funding, entrepreneurs face numerous challenges: skepticism towards the business and financial plans, requests for large equity stakes, tight control and managerial influence and limited understanding of the characteristic of growth process that start-ups experience.

By having an equity stake in the firm, the entrepreneur can enjoy a great deal of profit if things go well; but they also take on a great deal of risk— far more than a regular employee of the business. This entrepreneurial risk can take several forms, including financial risk, career risk, emotional risk, or overall business risk. Since there is so much at stake when it comes to starting and growing a successful business, there are very specific skills that an entrepreneur usually needs to be successful. Seminar on Innovation and technological entrepreneurship

Details of the Resource Person: Prof Nageswara Singh, OU

No. of Participants: 86

Prof Nageswara Singh Explaining about Innovation and technological entrepreneurship

A One-day Seminar on “Innovation and technological entrepreneurship” has been organized by the Department of MBA, Avanathi Institute of Engineering and Technology, Guntapally, from 02-08-2018. Prof Nageswara Singh has The understanding of entrepreneurship owes much to the work of economist Joseph Schumpeter and the Austrian school such as Ludwig von Mises and von Hayek. In Schumpeter (1950), an entrepreneur is a person who is willing and able to convert a new idea or invention into a successful innovation. Entrepreneurship forces "creative destruction" across markets and industries, simultaneously creating new products and business models. In this way, creative destruction is largely responsible for the dynamism of industries and long-run economic growth. Despite Schumpeter's early 20th-century contributions, the traditional microeconomic theory of economics has had little room for entrepreneurs in its theoretical frameworks (instead assuming that resources would find each other through a price system).
